Fight to save rare songbird

UNDER THREAT: The twite

By PETE MAGILL

Only 100 of the Pennine finches come home to roost

Nearly 40 landowners in rural Burnley have signed up as part of a drive to safeguard the future of the threatened Pennine finch.

More than 75 hectares of moorland in and around the South Pennines have been resown with foodstuffs friendly to the twite, the habitat's native songbird.

And it is hoped that the dandelions and heather introduced will boost the number of mating twite pairs.

Only around 100 of the finches return to the South Pennines each year, according to the Royal Society for the Protection of Birds.

Charlotte Weightman, project officer, said: "It takes a long time to establish the habitats but we have got 38 holdings where we've got agreements.

"We are working with landowners and farmers as we go along and next summer we will be preparing a full monitoring project for the twites to see whether this has had an effect on their numbers. It will be a critical year to see if the population is increasing."

The full results may not be known for another decade, as twites slowly begin to return to the traditional hay meadows they like to call home.

Not only has the restitution work aided the twites but the changes also encourage an abundance of butterflies and insects.

The loss of mature heather and bracken has affected twite numbers down the years, as well as a sparsity of seeds, with which they can feed their young.

Several major moorland fires have also decimated the moorland habitats The twites work is part of the Watershed Landscapes Project.

Jump for joy: It's Midnight Walk

RARING TO GO: Hundreds of women raise more than £108,000 for Pendleside Hospice in the annual Midnight Walk. Among the 1,430 women walking either five or eight miles around Burnley and Pendle were Sharon Whewell, Ellie Dean, 11, Chloe Anforth, 12, and Hayley Rockcliffe, seen here jumping for joy.

Trawl for talent

By PETE MAGILL

Young rappers, rockers and auteurs from across the North West are set to strut their stuff in the shadow of Burnley's historic mills as part of an Olympic-inspired festival.

Sandygate Square has been selected as the venue for Project Triangle, a one-day music and film festival on July 21. Part of the initative will see the long-closed Neptune Hotel reopened – for one day only – as a cinema for fledgling film-makers.

The 'somewhereto_' project, in partnership with Channel 4 and Olympic and Paralympic organisers, is now scouting for talent.

Project spokesman Claire Williiams said: "For one day only 'somewhereto_' will be delivering a spectacular free event showcasing the creative flair of young people from the north west with a day packed with performances, workshops and film screenings."

The idea behind 'somewhereto_' is to give young people the chance to express themselves in unused spaces and locations – currently the only East Lancs sites are at the Action Factory in Blackburn, part of Clayton-le-Moors youth hall and accommodation at the New Era Centre in Accrington. Singers and dancers are being hunted, plus anyone who can put together a 10-minute film.

Extra accommodation could be forthcoming for the initiative after Haslingden, Helmshore and Edenfield Forum has expressed an interest.

People wanting to get involved with Project Triangle in Burnley can call Claire on 01254 674777 or e-mail claire@somewhere to.org.

Witch role for Hollies drummer

One of the best-known figures in Pendle's history is set to be commemorated by one of its most famous sons.

Hollies drummer Bobby Elliott, from Roughlee, will return to the village on July 28 to unveil a statue to Pendle witch Alice Nutter.

Legendary drummer Bobby, 70, a former Nelson Grammar School pupil, still picks up the sticks with the outfit, who still tour worldwide.

He has been part of the band since 1963, alongside Nelson's Tony Hicks, Graham Nash and Allan Clarke.

The statue, which will be sited in Blacko Bar Road, is the brainchild of Coun James Starkie.

He dates his interest in Nutter's story to his time as an art student in Lancaster, where the witches were put on trial.

Unveiling his plans, he said: "Our vision is to create a lasting memorial to a past resident of the village.

"It will depict her sitting down, and people will be able to rest on benches by her side." Unlike most of her fellow accused, Nutter was from a comparatively wealthy background, the widow of a tenant farmer.

Even though she pleaded not guilty to murdering Henry Mitton by witchcraft, her fate was the same, on the evidence of her taking part in a 'witches' coven' at Malkin Tower, near Blacko.

The Transdev bus Alice Nutter will also be at the unveiling, which is also supported by Roughlee Parish and Pendle councils.

UNVEILING: Bobby Elliott

Tributes to wine merchant

BUSINESS: Bob Wright, of the Wright Wine Company

A wine merchant who ran premises across East Lancashire has died.

Bob Wright, 60, died at his home after a career that took him to Padiham, Clitheroe, Barley, London, and more recently Skipton.

He was born in East Lancs in 1952. His parents, Arthur and Doris, were licensees at The Pendle Inn, Barley, which ensured his entry into the wine and spirit business from an early age.

Twelve years later the family bought a corner shop in Padiham, which they turned into The Padiham Wine Shop.

With over 50 beers and with nearly 60 wines on draught, it was quite common for the young Bob to sell, and bottle, wines. That upbringing set him off on his own wine career. He worked in Great Yarmouth and Huddersfield before spending a few years at wholesale wine and spirit merchants, Whiteside's of Clitheroe.

After a short spell in London, he returned to the north, spent a couple of years living in Bolton-by-Bowland, before setting up the Wright Wine Company, in Skipton, which he had run for the past 30 years.

Julian Kaye, who had worked with him for 22 years and will now take over the business, said: "Bob's lasting legacy will be The Wright Wine Company.

"With the team he chose, it will continue for many years with the good foundations that Bob created and passed on."

His funeral was on Monday.

Crackdown on drug dealing

Drug dealers in Nelson town centre are being targeted by police.

Extra patrols have been launched in the Carr Road area of Nelson at all times of the day to try and stamp out drug activity.

Anyone with information is aked to call police on 101.

Slow down!

Police are to crack down on speeding motorists in the Pennine Way area of Reedley after receiving complaints from residents at recent Pact meetings.

Yobs warned

TEENAGERS hanging around in the playground of St Paul's CE School, Nelson, behaving in an anti-social manner, face receiving a youth referral order.

More stray dogs

There has been a rise in the number of stray dogs found in the Walverden and Cloverhill areas of Nelson in the last few weeks, police said.

Darth Vader strolled down Manchester Road and Star Wars stormtroopers were seen outside Burnley Town Hall.

But this wasn't an invasion by the Galactic Empire – it was a fitting tribute to a sci-fi fan from the town.

The weird and wonderful array of characters gathered at a fundraising party in honour of Simon Kennerley, who died in 2010 from cancer aged just 37.

Around 80 of his friends and family gathered for the party at Koko's, in Elizabeth Street, which raised more than £600 for Pendleside Hospice, where Simon spent his final hours.

The party was organised by Simon's close friends, Vicki Sharp, Emma Bracewell and Linzi Blake and guest of honour was Simon's mother, Maureen, who came as a fetching Princess Leia.

Vicki said: "We'd planned the evening for several months and it went fantastically well.

"So many people remember Simon with affection and we decided to have a special party to remember him by.

"There were plenty of wardrobe malfunctions, wigs falling off, feet through tights and trousers falling down but that just added to the fun.

"Knowing Simon as we did we all knew that he would have fallen about laughing if he could have seen us."

Burnley band K-Billy performed, as the members were Simon's friends and Burnley FC donated a signed shirt and ball to be auctioned. Star Wars actors including Vader himself, David Prowse, also donated signed prints to be sold.

Horoscopes with Claire Petulengro

Aries — March 21st-April 20th
Daily life should have plenty to keep you occupied and excited. There appears to be quite a bit of activity on your social scene and you are about to be offered the chance to expand your horizons. You have been bored with your usual group of friends for some time now but from this week life and love are about to get a whole lot more interesting. Call now and I'll tell you more.
Call: 0906 585 4516

Taurus — April 21st-May 21st
Relationships get taken to the next level. An odd request from a new acquaintance should be viewed carefully. Relatives become too involved in your affairs so don't be afraid to say so. An admirer whom you are not keen on could boost your morale and create jealousy from someone you do care for. Finances have signs of improving. Call now to hear how to keep them that way.
Call: 0906 585 4517

Gemini — May 22nd-June 21st
Don't let down those you've made promises to. Disruptive elements around now could cause you to be inpatient, quick tempered and snappy "be careful". A romantic understanding is getting out of hand. The ball is in your court. A financial boost is quickly followed by a new commitment. Gemini subjects are very significant, both socially and at work. Call now for the low down on love.
Call: 0906 585 4518

Cancer — June 22nd-July 23rd
Celebrations of all kinds will be the centre of events this week. You may find out a secret or two about certain individuals, but beware whom you tell. Reminiscing over old memories will help you feel at ease over the coming few days and to make peace with what did or didn't happen. Luck will be on your side when entering competitions. Call now to find out more about life and love.
Call: 0906 585 4519

Leo — July 24th-August 23rd
You've been building up to some dramatics and now you've got them. You'll have the urge to spring clean your entire house and life, and have the mindset of out with the old in with the new. This also applies to your social life at present, and any people that you don't really get on with, should be phased out of your social circle. Call me now to hear why Geminis spell improved funds.
Call: 0906 585 4520

Virgo — August 24th-September 23rd
The more you talk to people the less likely you are to bottle things up. However you're nit-picking about things you wouldn't usually even give a second thought to and you're in danger of making yourself look immature. If only you would speak about what is really on your mind, then all our lives would be a lot easier. Call now to hear what magic and growth Jupiter is ready to offer to your life.
Call: 0906 585 4521

Libra — September 24th-October 23rd
Love, romance and matters of the heart are going to be at the top of your agenda. Be prepared to make some sort of a compromise if you want to win the complete trust and respect of the person concerned, though. After all, you don't want to set restrictions for yourself in time to come, do you? Call now for more predictions and to find out why it's worth accepting party invites this week

Scorpio — October 24th-November 22nd
An old habit is best left in the past. Remember this. You appear to be going to some extreme lengths to avoid a certain person. However, the sooner you deal with this situation, the sooner you can relax and stop looking over your shoulder. Venus, the planet of love is offering you a way with words, which is sure to see you winning over even the coldest of hearts. Call now for your week in full
Call: 0906 585 4523

Sagittarius — November 23rd-December 21st
Don't rely on promises from friends, as many of the signs are doing what they want, when they want. With the line up in our skies over the coming days, they are more likely to give precedence to their love lives than to promises they have made to you. If you want a job done, be it personal or professional, do it yourself. Call my starline now for the low-down on your own love life.
Call: 0906 585 4524

Capricorn — December 22nd-January 20th
Watch out for a jealous face trying to goad you into a row at work. Many opinions have been exchanged between you and a close one, but you don't appear to have expressed a reaction to their needs. Unless you find your voice they're going to assume you don't support them. Speak now before it's too late. Call now to hear which sign is about to shake up your future and your heart.
Call: 0906 585 4525

Aquarius — January 21st-February 19th
The urge to do something naughty promises dramatics. However this would be a good day to tie up the loose ends left over from last week. In fact, ideas that you are currently having could be the key to the changes in life you have been seeking. Love may see you having to travel further than you'd like this weekend. Call now to hear which signs are worth turning your world upside down for.
Call: 0906 585 4526

Pisces — February 20th-March 20th
Don't allow a friend to dictate your lifestyle. You're stronger than that. This is your chance to recoup money that has been going out of your pocket at such a speed these past days. Lies you tell will be obvious, so stick to facts, not fiction. If not, you could end up being both embarrassed and short on friends. Call now to hear why a change of job may be written in your stars this month.

Beast signs new deal and vows to win back No1 slot

BRIAN Jensen insists he has not signed a new deal at Burnley just to collect a testimonial – vowing to challenge Lee Grant for the number one spot at Turf Moor this season.

Jensen this week joined fellow goalkeeper Jon Stewart by penning a new deal with the Clarets and the Dane's one-year contract includes the award of a testimonial.

The 37-year-old will be the first Burnley player to have a testimonial game since Graham Branch in 2007, with a match most likely to take place at some point next summer. A number of other events are also expected to be planned in his honour.

But, while pleased that his 10th season with the club will be rewarded with a benefit match, Jensen has made it clear that he also intends to fight hard to regain the goalkeeper's jersey from Grant this term – having made only four first-team appear-ances last season.

"I'm not here just for a testimonial," he said.

"I'm here to fight with all I can to get back into the side.

"I always see myself a first choice goalkeeper, but Granty has done really well since he's been here.

"Both of us have to fight for one place and that's what we'll do."

On his new deal, he added: "I always said it was my first priority to sign here again and I am really proud to be at the same club for 10 years.

"It's a great club so I am very, very happy.

"There were one or two bits and bobs to sort out but it's all done now and I have a testimonial year to look forward to."

A lengthy absence through injury saw Jensen fall behind Grant in the pecking order last season and his future appeared uncertain after he took time to mull over the offer of a new one-year contract with the club, following the expiry of his previous deal.

But his attendance on the first day of pre-season training on Friday was a clear sign that he had decided to stay at the club, and a deal was concluded yesterday.

"We always wanted him as part of the squad and his experience will be vital," said boss Eddie Howe.

"He has a big part to play in being a role model for the other players and the young group of goalkeepers we are bringing through."

Town's sports week put on hold for Olympic tie-in

THE annual Padiham Sports Week will be delayed to take part in the Burnley Olympic Challenge.

The sports week, now in its 13th year, will be put back three weeks to coincide with the borough wide sporting event – held a week after the London Olympics finish and the Paralympics begin. The Sports Week will run from August 18-25 and event organiser Alan Smith says all the favourite events will be held as well as a new five mile race.

Events being staged include a sporting extravaganza at Padiham Leisure Centre and the Mayor's Mile Fun Run – both to held on the opening Saturday.

The Big Dribble is back for the third year on Sunday, August 19 – a 5km football 'dribble' on Padiham's Greenway. The afternoon will see Padiham FC Ladies host Burnley FC Ladies at the Arbories (ko 3pm).

Other events include a 'round robin' bowls tournament run by Padiham Bowling Club on Thursday, August 23 while a special Padiham Five Mile Diamond Jubilee Challenge race will take place on Friday, August 24.

Smith said: "It was decided to delay the Padiham Sports Week so that it could be a part of the Burnley Olympic Challenge.

"It is great we are holding our event again and we have plenty of sporting opportunities to cater for everyone.

"Most of the usual events are back plus the new five mile race which should attract a lot of interest."

The race, which will start at the fountain in Padiham's Memorial Park will be on road and tow path and is open to runners of all abilities.

The Olympic Challenge will take place on the opening weekend of August 18-19 with the specific aim of getting as many people as possible to turn up, take part and join in events at local sports facilities.

Run by Burnley Borough Council, the event is also be called Join in Local Sport and will enable clubs to convert a wave of interest into a sustainable future of help, support and membership from their local community.

Coun John Harbour executive member for leisure and culture, said: "Local clubs are where it all begins; from the first time you run round the track, to the person who manages the pitch bookings, to the coach who pushes you to go that little bit further and faster.

"I know the Olympics and Paralympics are going to inspire people to get involved like never before. Burnley's Join In Challenge will make sure we don't miss out on this once in a lifetime opportunity."

For information contact Alan Smith on 07775 717698.
